The insatiable thirst for versatile sounds had led to the beautifully organized mess called Madhara. This urban tribe of seven young musicians have merged electronic, pop, jazz and world music elements into their first ep.

We love to travel, and have collected musical souvenirs from India and latin America. With these souvenirs we crafted a colorful live experience!

Expect three strong vocals, floating on a bed of strings and clarinet, boosted by synths. Combine this with a backbeat, enhanced by latin and eastern percussion and you have gotten yourself the Madhara sound. Madhara brings an energizing set full of surprising elements, aiming to take you on a mesmerizing trip through sound, images and movement.
